

ABAGAIL SUMMERS BIO

Abigail Summers is a Southern Fiction author of short stories, poetry, and novels that explore the emotional undercurrents of Southern life. She writes with the rhythm of Charleston tides and the hush of salty air. Her stories honor the emotional crossroads of Southern living—where memories linger in the patterns of wallpaper, the pews of churches, and whispered reputations. Her published works include Life with a Bird Out the Window (2014), Forgiving the Past (2020), The Untold Legacy (2021), After the Storm (2025), and Unopened (2025).

Her writing appears on Spillwords.com, and two of her short stories, “Shining Light” and “Claire De Lune,” were selected for the anthology An Iron Fist in a Velvet Glove, earning honorable mention in the Globe Soup 7-Day Writing Contest. She also received second place in the Summerville Writing Contest, presented at the Summerville Reads Book Festival.

This summer, she was honored as a featured writer at the Pat Conroy Literary Center’s Open Mic Night, where she shared After the Storm, a novel deeply rooted in the heart and heritage of the South.

Order books at: Amazon.com: Abigail Summers: books, biography, latest update

Website: growingwthepast.blogspot.com

Poetry: Abigail Summers, Author at Spillwords

Follow her at: Abigail Summers | Facebook